At the Funfair

A group of excited friends were going along the street and their hearts were beating fast. Their mood was more and more cheerful as the friends were coming closer to the city funfair. The smell of cotton candy and popcorn was in the air and people and children were laughing around.

The friends went from one attraction to another. At first, they cheered each other at the darts game. They hoped to win a big teddy bear. Tom was the most accurate and, finally, he could throw a dart at the top ten. After playing darts the boys decided to try the merry-go-round. They climbed a colourful horse, a car, a plane and a giraffe and the attraction went in a circle. The boys were shouting happily and having fun. Then Ben and Sam wanted to ride the Ferris wheel while Tom and Larry wanted to have a race on electric cars. The friends went to different attractions. After some time, they met again to share their emotions.
