FARM ANIMALS

Sniffy, a tiny little piglet, is an early bird. Hmm... well, he is not really a bird. He is only a baby pig. He wakes up very early. He gets out of his bed and starts talking and walking with a big smile on his face. He likes this time of the day.

His best friend, Woolly, is quite the opposite. He is a lazy little lamb. He likes to stay in his cosy little bed. He sleeps there like a big bear until the sun is up in the sky. He stays up late into the dark night talking and talking. But what does Woolly like to discuss? Does he talk about school, sports, his hobbies? No, of course not. Woolly mostly talks about tasty leaves, grass and apples. Delicious snacks are his favourite topic.

Sniffy and Woolly live on a farm. Tobby, the farmer, likes his animals to walk around, to eat good food, to be happy and to be free. But he worries that they don't escape into the forest where the wolf lives. He is afraid that the big bad wolf might eat his animals. When Wolfy, the wolf, wants to scare the farm animals, he comes out of the forest. Then he comes near the farm. He covers himself with leaves and hides in the bushes close to the farm.

There is another animal living on the farm, Grouchy. Oh, Grouchy can be angry sometimes. He is a very unfriendly, old goat. He often scares the wolf with his huge horns. Grouchy even kicks farmer Tobby with his hoofs sometimes. Grouchy doesn't really like anybody. But sometimes Grouchy says "Hello" to Henny, the old, friendly hen living on the farm. She is as sweet as pie, and she never shouts.

When all the animals are awake, it's feeding time. It is a simple life but they are all very happy.
