From the Amazon to Antarctica

Sarah Collins is a famous TV presenter in Canada, but she has done many exciting and interesting things in her life. She became famous in the year 2005 when she was in a TV show called "Earth Guardians." She was part of a group of people who lived in the Amazon rainforest for six months. They lived in small houses and had to find their own food. They took photos of rare animals and plants.

Since then, she has made a lot of TV programs about animals including "Ocean Depths," "Arctic Wilderness," and "Vanishing Habitats." These programs have taken her all over the world. She went to Antarctica where she stayed for three months to film penguins. It was very cold, and a big snowstorm kept her team inside their house for two weeks.

Sarah still travels to far places to show people about nature. She has written five books about her adventures and often talks to students about what she has learned.
