The Lost Backpack

Emma was on her way home from school when she realized she had left her backpack in the library. She remembered placing it next to a bookshelf while she was looking for a history book, but she had been in a hurry and forgot to take it with her.

She quickly turned around and ran back to the school library, hoping it would still be there. When she arrived, the library was almost empty, and she couldn't see her backpack anywhere. Feeling worried, she approached the librarian, Mrs. Turner, and asked if anyone had found a black backpack with a red keychain attached to it.

Mrs. Turner smiled and pointed to the lost and found box near the entrance. Relieved, Emma rushed over and saw her backpack right on top. She thanked the librarian and promised to be more careful in the future. As she walked home, she thought about how lucky she was that someone had been honest enough to return it.
