In the city center, there is a small but modern clinic. There are different rooms for different medical services. There is a reception area where patients check in, and there are two waiting rooms with comfortable chairs and magazines.

In the examination rooms, there are medical instruments like thermometers, blood pressure monitors, and stethoscopes. There is also a pharmacy inside the clinic, so patients can get their medicine easily. Next to the pharmacy, there is a laboratory where doctors analyze blood tests and other medical samples.

For emergencies, there is a first-aid room with bandages, antiseptics, and other essential supplies. There are also consultation rooms where doctors meet with patients to discuss their health problems. In the hallway, there are posters with important health information about vaccinations and healthy lifestyles.

The clinic is not as big as a hospital, but it is an important place where doctors and nurses take care of many people every day.
