Text 2 A Read the play.

One good turn deserves another

Characters: Ah Wei – a noodle seller, Ling – a girl, Ah Man – a neighbour

Act 1

Narrator : Our story starts many years ago in a poor part of town.
Ling : Excuse me, may I have some noodles with vegetables and beef, please?
Ah Wei : Here you are. Six dollars, please.
Ling: Oh dear! I only have four dollars. I used most of my money to buy medicine for my father. He's sick. The noodles are for him.
Ah Wei : It's OK. Keep your money. The noodles are free. I hope your father gets well soon.
Ling : Thank you very much.

Act 2

Narrator : Many years later, Ah Wei is an old man. He is not well.
Ah Man : Ah Wei, you are very sick. You must go to Doctor Lam Ling. She's the best doctor in town.
Ah Wei : I am a poor noodle seller. I have no money for an expensive doctor.

Act 3

Narrator : That evening, there is a knock at Ah Wei's door.
Ah Wei : Who is it?
Ling : Doctor Lam Ling. I am here to help you.
Ah Wei : Oh, Doctor Lam Ling! Please come in.
Ling : You are very sick. This medicine can help you.
Ah Wei : How much is it? I only have one hundred dollars.
Ling : Do you remember me? Many years ago you gave me some free noodles. Now it's my turn to help you. Keep your money. The medicine is free.
Ah Wei : Thank you.
Ling : No, thank you.
