Phrasal Verbs

A verb + adverb combination is a phrasal verb when the combination means something different than what the verb alone means.

- Run across - to find something or someone unexpectedly.
"I was cleaning the closet and ran across some old cassettes with songs from the 80s"

Vs.

Verbs followed by an adverbial phrase

Not all cases of verb + adverb are phrasal verbs. Sometimes the adverb (or adverbial phrase) is simply describing the verb in terms of "how", "when" or "where".

He ran.
He ran where?
He ran across the street.
