Saint Patrick is the patron saint of Ireland and every year on the 17th / the 70th of March Irish people all over the world have a huge celebration in his honor. He was born in Wales / London which is just across the sea from Ireland. It was the year 373 and the Romans still ruled that part of the world. Many of the people in Wales and Ireland were Druids who worshipped the sun / the moon and other aspects of nature. But Patrick was a Christian. When Patrick was 16 years old, he was walking along the beach and some clowns / pirates seized him. They took him to Ireland and sold him as a slave where he worked in the fields. One day he heard god telling him to escape and he ran down to see where he found a boat / ship waiting to take him home. When he was grown up, he heard a voice telling him to return to Ireland / England and to tell people there about Christianity which is what he did.

Patrick traveled the length and breadth of Ireland and had many adventures while he spread his message. Quite often the druid priests were very happy with / angry at him for telling their followers to change their religion and his life was always in great danger.

Ireland is a very rainy / snowy country and the fields are emerald green. One of the most common plants that grows among the grass is the shamrock. It's like a small clover with three / five leaves. Saint Patrick used to pick up the shamrock / hard rock and explain that the three leaves were three aspects of god - the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. Saint Patrick is also famous for driving all the frogs / snakes into the sea so that to this day there are no snakes lurking in the beautiful green grass of Ireland. The shamrock and the snakes are the most famous poems / stories about Saint Patrick.
