

We interviewed six teenagers regarding their opinions on supernatural films. Read the texts below and answer the questions that follow.

Teens' Thoughts on Supernatural Films

A – Joseph, 16 years old

Supernatural films aren't really my cup of tea. They are too fantastical and unrelatable in my opinion. Although I can see the attraction of the supernatural genre, I personally get greater satisfaction from stories that explore the difficulties of daily life since I can relate to the characters and their adventures on a deeper level.

B – Chua, 17 years old

I enjoy watching films about the supernatural! It's as if you've entered a dimension where the lines between truth and fantasy are blurred and the unknowable becomes real. These films offer me an unmatched rush of adrenaline, sending chills down my spine at every jump scare and thrilling scene.

C – Amirul, 17 years old

Movies on the supernatural are my guilty pleasure. I get an adrenaline boost from them, and I find the amazing effects and made-up supernatural entities fascinating. It's like getting on a thrilling and emotional roller-coaster ride. These films give an exciting diversion from reality and a sort of entertainment that I find hard to resist.

D – Viknesh, 16 years old

I like supernatural films best when they blend suspense and reality. Even though I enjoy the occasional jump scare and ambient features, I wish the genre had more complexity and unpredictability. It should be both exciting and thought-provoking to explore the unknown. I like watching supernatural films that push boundaries and exceed my expectations.

E – Liew, 17 years old

I don't like watching supernatural films. They often scare me too much, and I have trouble falling asleep afterward. Movies that are lighter and don't interfere with my mind are what I prefer. In addition, I like seeing films that make me laugh or cheer me up.

F – Hazree, 16 years old

My experience with supernatural films is actually by chance. Some of them manage to hold my interest with their fascinating narratives and mystical stories, while others could not. Besides, I value imagination and admire the film makers that present something unique and surprising.
