A Minecraft Movie

There was an "exceptional" response from the crowd to A Minecraft Movie, according to the UK Cinema Association. Many young fans were loudly shouting when certain characters were appearing on the screen. Some cinemas were warning that "anti-social behavior," like "loud screaming, clapping, and shouting, was not being tolerated," and videos of excited reactions were being shared a lot.

Phil Clapp, the UK Cinema Association's chief executive, said that most of the behavior was being friendly and fun, explaining that it was "seemingly being driven by the desire of young people to share their experiences on social media." However, he asked "those who were taking part to be considerate of the enjoyment of other cinema-goers."

Some parts of the movie were causing a lot of excitement from the audience, including the appearance of the Chicken Jockey, which was becoming a TikTok trend, with some fans shouting and throwing popcorn.

Based on one of the world's best-selling video games, the movie was telling the story of four people who didn't fit in, who were being pulled through a mysterious portal into the Overworld, the place where all Minecraft players start.

Anyone who was causing disruption would be asked to leave in the cinema, and "if necessary, the police would be called," the company added. Branches of Cineworld in Oxfordshire and Glasgow were warning that anyone behaving badly would be ejected from the cinema.
