

กิจกรรมที่ 4.2 Inference (Reading)

The new library in town has many features that people love. It has a large collection of books, comfortable reading areas, and free Wi-Fi. Children enjoy the story time sessions every Saturday morning. Many people also use the library to study or work on projects. The library is open six days a week, making it easy for everyone to visit.

1. What can we infer about the library's popularity?

- a. It has a small collection of books.
- b. It is only for children.
- c. Many people visit it regularly.
- d. It is closed most of the week.

Anna has a beautiful garden in her backyard. She grows many different types of flowers, such as roses, tulips, and sunflowers. Every morning, she waters the plants and checks for any insects. Her neighbors often compliment her on the garden. Anna loves spending time outside, especially when the weather is sunny.

2. What can we infer about Anna's feelings toward her garden?

- a. She is bored of it.
- b. She enjoys taking care of it.
- c. She wishes it would disappear.
- d. She thinks it is too much work.

The school play was a great success. Many students participated, and the audience was full of parents and friends. Everyone worked hard to prepare for the performance, and it showed. The actors remembered their lines, and the music was fantastic. At the end, the audience gave a standing ovation.

3. What can we infer about the students' preparation for the play?

- a. They did not practice at all.
- b. They were very well-prepared.
- c. They were confused about their roles.
- d. They did not care about the performance.

