Questions 7–13

Complete the table below. Choose NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS from the passage for each answer.

Kohls (1996) describes culture shock as a process of change marked by four basic stages. During the first stage, the new arrival is excited to be in a new place, so this is often referred to as the “honeymoon” stage. Like a tourist, they are intrigued by all the new sights and sounds, new smells and tastes of their surroundings. They may have some problems, but usually they accept them as just part of the novelty. At this point, it is the similarities that stand out, and it seems to the newcomer that people everywhere and their way of life are very much alike. This period of euphoria may last from a couple of weeks to a month, but the letdown is inevitable.

During the second stage, known as the ‘rejection’ stage, the newcomer starts to experience difficulties due to the differences between the new culture and the way they were accustomed to living. The initial enthusiasm turns into irritation, frustration, anger and depression, and these feelings may have the effect of people rejecting the new culture so that they notice only the things that cause them trouble, which they then complain about. In addition, they may feel homesick, bored, withdrawn and irritable during this period as well.

Fortunately, most people gradually learn to adapt to the new culture and move on to the third stage, known as ‘adjustment and reorientation’. During this stage a transition occurs to a new optimistic attitude. As the newcomer begins to understand more of the new culture, they are able to interpret some of the subtle cultural clues which passed by unnoticed earlier. Now things make more sense and the culture seems more familiar. As a result, they begin to develop problem-solving skills, and feelings of disorientation and anxiety no longer affect them.

In Kohls’s model, in the fourth stage, newcomers undergo a process of adaptation. They have settled into the new culture, and this results in a feeling of direction and self-confidence. They have accepted the new food, drinks, habits and customs and may even find themselves enjoying some of the very customs that bothered them so much previously. In addition, they realise that the new culture has good and bad things to offer and that no way is really better than another, just different.

Question 1. Choose the correct answers.

What is the most suitable title for the passage?

- A. How to Travel the World with Confidence
- B. The Benefits of Learning a New Language Abroad
- C. The Four Stages of Culture Shock
- D. Why People Prefer Their Own Culture

THE STAGES OF CULTURE SHOCK
	name	newcomers' reaction to problems
Stage 1	7	They notice the 8 between different nationalities and cultures. They may experience this stage for up to 9
Stage 2	Rejection	They reject the new culture and lose the 10 they had at the beginning.
Stage 3	Adjustment and reorientation	They can understand some 11 which they had not previously observed. They learn 12 for dealing with difficulties.
Stage 4	13	They enjoy some of the customs that annoyed them before.
