1.3. Reading Passage 1

Read the passage below. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

I recently saw the musical The Lion King at the theatre. I had watched Disney's classic animated film many times when I was a child and I enjoyed the 2019 movie too, so it was really exciting to hear that the stage show was in town.

I loved it when the show started and all the animals danced down the aisle. There were giraffes, zebras and a huge elephant and their costumes were incredible. The elephant was so big it needed one dancer for each leg! It was amazing that they could still dance so well! The story in the stage show is the same as the films. Simba is a young lion in Africa whose father is the king of the grasslands. His uncle Scar is jealous that Simba will be king, so scares him away. However, when Simba grows up he returns to save the grasslands. The music in the stage show is a bit different to both films but, in my view, it's still very powerful and at times I felt like singing along! The performers were fantastic, especially Simba as a child. He had so much energy. But, for me, the star of the show was the woman who played the monkey, Rafiki. She had the most wonderful voice. The one thing I didn't enjoy was the annoying person in front of me who chatted noisily to their friend throughout the whole show!

Overall, I totally recommend this show. It's perfect for all ages.

1. The reviewer didn't know the story. T/F
2. The costumes were really good. T/F
3. The elephant was a dancer. T/F
4. The story is set in the African grasslands. T/F
5. Everyone is kind to Simba. T/F

1.4. Reading Passage 2 (10 points)

Read the text below and match sentences A-F with gaps 26 - 30. There is one sentence that you do not need.

ELLIS ISLAND

Between 1892 and 1954, over 12 million immigrants arrived in New York. They came from all over the world on crowded, dirty ships, but most came from Europe. They were often poor and life was difficult for them in their own countries. The journey from their own countries was long and tiring. (1) People went to America because they wanted to make a new life for themselves.

They got off the ship at tiny Ellis Island in New York Bay. (2) First, American officials asked them a lot of questions about their families, their jobs and the money they had. (3) Very sick people, very old people and criminals had to return home. The busiest year for Ellis Island was 1907 when over one million immigrants arrived. The busiest day was 17th April, 1907. (4)

From Ellis Island the new immigrants travelled by boat to New York. The city was full of different races, cultures and languages. There was an Irish district, a Jewish district, Chinatown, Little Italy and Harlem (where many ex-slaves lived). The new immigrants usually lived in apartments with six or seven other families. (5) Life wasn't easy!

But the new immigrants worked hard and helped to make America successful. Today, one third of the population – over 100 million Americans – are descendants of the Ellis Island immigrants.

- A. Then doctors checked their health.
- B. They waited patiently in long queues.
- C. Every member of the family had to work, and most of them didn't speak English!
- D. Over 11,000 people arrived on that day!
- E. But they had very little luggage with them Every member of the family had to work, and most of them didn't speak English!
- F. The first thing they saw as their ship came into New York Bay was the enormous Statue of Liberty
