How Animals See Things

Many people think animals see things like humans do. But this is not true! Most animals have their own unique way of seeing things.

Dogs cannot see some colors. They can only see gray, blue, and yellow. Some scientists believe that red and green appear yellow to dogs. So dogs think red and green tomatoes are all yellow! But dogs have better night vision than humans. That is why your pet dog easily moves around in the dark. Horses' eyes give them an extremely wide view. That is because their eyes are on the sides of their heads. It allows them to see about 350 degrees around them. So horses can easily sense approaching predators and run away. However, horses cannot see things that are right in front of them! They have a blind spot in the space between their two eyes.

Dragonflies'eyes have about 30,000 lenses. Their eyes can see about 360 degrees around. Also, dragonflies are very good at sensing motion. They can see most movements in slow motion. Dragonflies catch their prey while flying. Their strong vision makes this easier to do.

Canada Geese are large blue and white birds. When autumn arrives, they have to fly south where the weather is warmer. The winters are so cold in Canada that the birds die if they stay there.

Last spring, Bill Lishman found sixteen young Canada Geese on his farm. They had lost their parents. Bill thought, "These young birds won't know what to do in the autumn." Bill had a small plane and he decided to teach the birds to follow him. All through the summer, he went on short trips in his plane and the young geese flew after him.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

When the cold weather arrived in autumn, Bill flew to Virginia in the United States, over 600 miles south of his home in Canada. The geese followed him all the way. Bill left the geese in Virginia and he returned home. This spring, Bill was waiting for the birds to come back. They didn't arrive, so Bill flew to Virginia to get them. He looked for them for two weeks but he couldn't find them. When he arrived back home, Bill found the geese waiting for him. They had found their way home without him!
