PART 3: READING

Read the text below and choose the correct answer for each question.

Making Better Offices

People spend a lot of time at work and companies spend a lot of money providing workplaces. Workplaces have changed a lot in the past fifty years. We can now see more relaxing spaces and open desk spaces in many offices but could this change more in the future? One company, WeWork, have been collecting data to do just that.

WeWork is a co-working supplier that have offices around the world. They provide self-employed people or small businesses a flexible space to work in. People can pay for an office or just use the facilities and a desk. They have offices worldwide and they have become central London's biggest office occupiers.

They have learnt a lot from having office spaces in many different countries. In their offices, they observe the daily routines of everybody who is working there. For example, they can see how many people are using conference rooms, and how often these rooms are booked. They can watch how people are using the group spaces and how they walk around the offices. They have also conducted surveys asking staff what they think of the spaces.

With all this information, WeWork is now offering office design services to businesses. They want to make sure companies are only renting the space they need and are using that space in the best way possible. The overall aim for companies is to save money by a clever design of the workplace.

David Fano of WeWork explained that one problem is how much space people really use at work. An example is people who send out meeting invites with RSVPs for three

1 What does the writer say about past workplaces in paragraph one?

- a They were bad.
- b They were more relaxed.
- c They were different to now.

2 What does WeWork do?

- a It provides flexible workspaces.
- b It helps start up small businesses.
- c It supplies office equipment.

3 How do WeWork learn about office space?

- a by studying how workers use their office space
- b by having conferences in different countries
- c by changing workers' routines

4 What do WeWork ask workers about?

- a their weekly work schedules
- b their opinions on where they work
- c their reasons for doing their job

5 What is WeWork's new goal?

- a to rent more office spaces
- b to help designers create smaller office space
- c to help businesses use office space better

6 What does David Fano think is one problem for businesses?

- a They have many cancelled meetings.
- b They waste meeting space.
- c They don't have enough meeting rooms.

7 According to the text, how can the environment of a workspace influence meetings?

- a It helps reduce the number of meetings needed.
- b It can improve how people work depending on the meeting's focus.

people, but they have booked an eight-person room. Using ideas like smaller conversation areas can help people work better and then businesses save money. However, it isn't all about saving money; the environment of a work space can improve the way people work and this can change depending on the focus of a meeting. Data has shown that for a sales meeting it can be a good idea to have bright lights and some music in the background because this gives energy to the participants and makes them feel positive. With more and more data on working habits, WeWork may continue to make work spaces more effective for companies and employees in the future.	c It ensures all meetings are conducted in silence. d It eliminates the need for data on working habits. 8 The last paragraph explains how WeWork can make work spaces more ... a relaxing. b productive. c money saving.

Task 2: Read the article and then do the following tasks.

MÉDECINS SANS FRONTIÈRES

The international non-governmental organization (NGO) - Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF), or Doctors without Borders, was founded in 1971. Its purpose was to help people who needed medical aid following natural disasters, or political violence and wars. In the beginning, there were only thirteen doctors and journalists. Since then it has expanded dramatically and has offices all over the world. By 1972 there were 300 volunteers, including the thirteen original founders. In that year, MSF's first task was to help people in Managua, the capital city of Nicaragua, after an earthquake. Between 10,000 and 30,000 people died. In 1974, staff went to Honduras after Hurricane Fifi and the flooding that followed. The following year MSF assisted in its first refugee crisis, helping Cambodians who had fled their country. During the 70s, there were problems for the MSF staff on the ground; there was little preparation before staff set off on a mission; doctors had little support and supply lines were not reliable. At that time, there were no humanitarian logisticians, so ports and airports became blocked because of aid packages that had been sent from all over the world. Now things have changed. The organisation employs more than 36,000 people around the world. These people support the medical professionals and include logisticians, heads of fundraising, coordinators, managers and accountants. There are also many thousands of volunteers. All operation bases need a manager and other staff to raise funds and plan how to deliver aid where it is needed. The manager has to resolve problems, as well as decide on and implement fund-raising strategies. He or she must also ensure that projects don't go over budget. NGO accountants assist the manager with the financial side of the operation. They have to work out the budget, make sure that staff are paid, pay bills and train local staff to control their own budgets. The manager and coordinator train volunteers to do their jobs. The coordinator develops and implements training programmes and is responsible for making travel arrangements and arranging meetings. The organization is continuing its work, helping sick and distressed people wherever help is needed.
