

Every day, we have many chances to show kindness. Kindness can be a small act, like smiling at someone, helping a friend with homework, or holding the door for a stranger. These actions may seem simple, but they can make a big difference. When we are kind, we make others feel happy and respected. Kindness can also bring us closer together. A kind person is often trusted and loved by many. Remember, kindness doesn't cost anything, but its value is great. One kind act can inspire another, creating a chain of kindness that spreads through our school, our community, and even the world.

A. True / False Questions

1. Kindness always requires a lot of money. (True / False)
2. Helping a friend with homework is a kind act. (True / False)
3. Kindness can help us build better relationships. (True / False)
4. A kind person is usually disliked. (True / False)
5. One act of kindness can inspire others to be kind. (True / False)

B. Fill in the blanks

1. Kindness can be a _____ act, like smiling at someone.
2. These actions may seem _____, but they can make a big difference.
3. When we are kind, we make others feel _____ and respected.
4. Kindness doesn't _____ anything.
5. A kind act can create a _____ of kindness

C. Multiple Choice

1. What is the main idea of the passage?
  - A. Kindness is expensive but useful
  - B. Kindness is powerful and makes the world better
  - C. People don't need kindness anymore
  - D. Being kind means doing big things