Mardi Gras in New Orleans

Mardi Gras is a popular holiday in New Orleans, Louisiana. "Mardi Gras" is the name for a special day in the early part of the year, but the celebration of Mardi Gras lasts for weeks. People in New Orleans started to celebrate Mardi Gras in the 1700s. People went to dances or balls where they wore masks and special costumes, and they gathered together in the streets. In the 1800s, Mardi Gras became so popular that the government tried to limit the Mardi Gras season. But people continued to celebrate no matter what the government did. Like parties and balls, parades are an important part of Mardi Gras. There are over 60 Mardi Gras parades every year. People ride in the parades and throw things to the crowds in the streets. For example, they throw necklaces, false money, and clothes. The people in the crowds try to catch as many things as they can. Mardi Gras is a very exciting time.
