

HOMOPHONE STORY

Cross out the homophone words and provide the correct choice.

THE LOST JEWELS

It was a chili fall knight. The wind blew. My ant decided to take a wok to the store. On the weigh she spied a dog that began to bark. The dog was trying two berry sum bones. As she got closer my aunt saw the dog had found a sack of jewels. The dog came over to smell her cent. As the dog sniffed her, she red the dog's tag. The cereal number was 23232. There was also a name on the tag, "colonel," with an address. "Wood ewe like to go home?" she asked the dog. She walked the dog home too 25 Flour Street. The woman was pail when my aunt handed back the jewels because they had bean missing fore a weak.