WHOSE

(De quién) o (a quién le pertenece)

WHOSE investigates possession, so we need to remember the possessive adjectives, possessive nouns and the possessive pronouns.

PERSONAL PRONOUNS	POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES	POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS
I	my	mine
You	your	yours
We	our	ours
They	their	theirs
She	her	hers
He	his	his
It	its	its

To elaborate a question using "whose", the first thing that we have to, do is to identify the possession and after that write the noun possessed next to whose.

Example:

Whose + noun

Possession	Question.
Paula's car.	Whose car?
Her car.	Whose car?
Fernando's car.	Whose car?
His car.	Whose car?

Possession	Question.
Paul´s television.	Whose television?
His television.	Whose television?
Alba´s television.	Whose television?
Her television.	Whose television?

HOW TO MAKE A WH QUESTION USING "WHOSE"

There are 2 manners to use "whose", one in the subject and one in the complement, but they have 2 different structures.

Structure in the subject.

Whose + noun + verb + complement?

Structure in the complement.

Whose + noun + aux + subject + verb + complement?

"WHOSE" IN THE SUBJECT.

When the possession is in the subject, you simply delete the possession and copy the sentence completely. (whose + noun)

"WHOSE" IN THE COMPLEMENT.

When the possession is in the complement, you need to use auxiliaries. "DO-DOES"

Structure for "whose" in the complement:

Whose + noun + aux (do –does)

I like Kelly's bear.

Whose bear do you like?

Remember that after whose (in the complement), you always use a noun and an aux -(do /does). then use subject, verb, complement and question mark.

WHOSE + noun + aux (do/does) + subject + verb + complement + ?

Remember to keep the preposition if it is present in the sentence.

It is recommendable to use the preposition at the beginning of the question.
