

Grandma and Tom – A Change of Life

Tom: Hi, Grandma! How are you and Grandpa  ?

Grandma: Oh, we are fine, dear. A bit  these days, but still keeping  .
Actually, I wanted to talk to you about something  .

Tom: Sure, what is it?

Grandma: Well, after living in the countryside for over 40 years, your grandpa and I are thinking... maybe it's time to move to the city.

Tom: Really? That's a  change! What made you think about it?

Grandma: Oh, many things. Life in the country is  , yes, but it's also become  for us. The house is  , the winters are  , and everything is so  away—shops, the doctor, even the post office!

Tom: Yeah, I can imagine. Things are much  here in the city.

Grandma: Exactly. We want to be closer to  medical care, and maybe join some community activities. Also, we'd love to see you more often.
You're the only one nearby, you know!

Tom: That would be  ! I would love to have you nearby.
Are you sure you're ready for the  and the crowds, though?

Grandma: It won't be  at first. But we are  now, and we think comfort and company are more important than  fields. Besides, we'll still visit the countryside sometimes.

Tom: So how can I help?

Grandma: Well, I was hoping you could help us look for a  apartment, maybe  your neighborhood. And show us around a bit—what to do, where to go. You are a city expert now!

Tom: Of course, Grandma. I'll help with everything. We will find you a place you will love.

Grandma: Thank you, darling. It's a  chapter, but we're ready for it—with a  help from you.
