Jessica Nabongo didn't like her job, so she set a new <sup>1</sup> _____. She decided to go to <sup>2</sup> _____ on Earth. She dreamed of being the first <sup>3</sup> _____ to do it. The trip changed Nabongo—she became a photographer and a <sup>4</sup> _____.

A It all began in Bali. Jessica Nabongo was on a two-week vacation there in 2017, feeling unhappy in her job. Then she read an article about another traveler who visited every country in the world. Nabongo wanted to be the first Black woman to do this.

B On October 6, 2019, Nabongo landed in the Seychelles, her 195th country—completing her goal! Along the way she became a writer and photographer. Here she answers questions about her travels.
