Pilot Accidentally Triggers Hijacking Alarm

A false hijacking alert was sent from an Air Europa plane to Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam. The airplane was about to depart for Madrid, Spain when the pilot [____] pressed the "hostage alert" button. The alert caused the [____] of most of the airport's gates. Some rumours suggested that passengers on board the airplane were being held hostage by men with [____]. After the military police were called in to investigate the situation, they announced that it had been a false alarm. All [____] and crew were safely evacuated, and [____] was harmed.