

Innovative Company Tackles Food Waste

A food company in the US has developed a natural coating that may double or the shelf life of fruits and vegetables. Apeel Sciences says their natural spray like an extra peel and slows down water loss and oxidation. The spray has no smell, taste, or colour and is safe to consume. Several US grocery store are already testing the product on avocados. Approximately 40% of the food around the world goes to waste.