Last winter, my family and I visited the Sheikh Zayed Grand Mosque in Abu Dhabi. It was my first time seeing the beautiful white domes and long hallways. I was so amazed that I didn't notice my sandal had slipped off.

As we walked through the prayer area, I looked down and realized I was only wearing one! I felt embarrassed and worried. My little brother started laughing, which didn't help. We retraced our steps quietly until we found the sandal near the fountain.

Even though I was nervous, I learned to always check my things. That day became a funny family memory we still laugh about.
