Dobieranie tekstów do zdań

Zadanie 1. (0–4)

Przeczytaj teksty (A–C) oraz zdania 1.1.–1.4. Do każdego zdania dopasuj właściwy tekst. Wpisz rozwiązania do tabeli.

Uwaga! Jeden tekst pasuje do dwóch zdań.

A	Physical exercise is very important not only to keep the body fit, but also to keep us mentally healthy. First of all, exercising helps us burn any unnecessary calories. A consequence of this is that we become slimmer and fitter. But even more important is the second aspect of exercising – whenever we exercise intensively, our heart pumps blood faster, which helps oxygenate the brain, helping us reduce stress levels. At the same time, it releases endorphins, making us feel happier as a consequence.
B	Voluntary work can be a really good start to your job career. Working along with other volunteers gives a chance to meet someone who can help you on your career path. But the most important about volunteering is the fact that, by devoting time to your local community, you're actually doing something to improve it and, thanks to your increased satisfaction when you realise this, you will feel much better as a result.
C	No matter how much you want to be successful in your professional life, you must not forget about spending time with your family and friends. Work is undoubtedly important, but it must not take over your life. There should always be a balance between time devoted to those who love you and your work, so go up the ladder of your professional career sensibly, otherwise, one day, you may wake up in your dream home completely alone!

This way of spending free time would be best for someone who

1.1.	wants to do something beneficial for others.
1.2.	is into sport.
1.3.	seems to be overworked.
1.4.	doesn't want to be overweight.

Zadanie 2. (0–4)

Przeczytaj teksty (A–C) oraz zdania 2.1.–2.4. Do każdego zdania dopasuj właściwy tekst. Wpisz rozwiązania do tabeli.

Uwaga! Jeden tekst pasuje do dwóch zdań.

A	When choosing a dog for the family, you must remember about your noisy, playful children. Not every dog likes to be hugged or have its fur pulled - even accidentally. You should not choose a dog which is aggressive towards other people or which barks at them – it may frighten your children and even result in phobias connected with animals. The best option then is a Labrador (...)
B	If you want to have a dog but work all day, it should not be an animal that is over-active or easily bored. It would be better if it were a less-energetic breed that is happy with the idea of spending time on its own during the day. An ideal breed would be something like a Basset Hound, which will probably spend most of its day sleeping.
C	If you have a farm with a large number of sheep and need a dog which will help you to look after them, then you need a shepherd dog such as a Border collie. It is believed that this very intelligent breed loves hard work and following people's commands. These dogs are very energetic, love playing games and the idea of doing nothing is something completely unnatural for them. Keeping them as pets in a house or flat may not, as a result, be the best idea.

This dog would be a good choice for someone who

2.1.	is out of the house for several hours a day.
2.2.	wants to teach his dog something useful.
2.3.	wants to have a child-friendly dog.
2.4.	needs an excellent working dog.

Today was a very special day for me. 2.1. _____ He often works long hours, has little time for himself and travels a lot, so the first thing I did was telephone his workplace just to make sure that he was there. 2.2. _____ I suddenly thought it would be a great idea to make a birthday cake for him and take it to his workplace. I spent two hours making one and decorated it with fresh fruit. I was really proud of myself because I was making a lot of the decoration for the first time. For example, there was a lotus flower, cut from a melon with a special Thai knife. It was filled with blackberries and looked both outstanding and delicious. 2.3. _____ I packed it into a cake tin and ran to my car. When I'd reached the cool and elegant hall of my friend's company, something terrible happened... 2.4. _____ You should have seen my friend's face, when they found me lying on the floor surrounded by bits of cake and fruit... ..

- A. I put it on the top of the cake, made some leaves from kiwi fruit and admired my work for a few minutes because it looked simply perfect!
- B. The heel on one of my shoes broke and I fell over!
- C. It was my friend's birthday, so I decided to surprise him.
- D. I bought a really nice leather wallet and gave it to them
- E. A nice voice at the other end of the line told me that he was at work that day.

Ferdinand Cheval was born in 1836. He worked as a postman but is best known as the builder of an unusual palace called the Le Palais Ideal, which is situated in Hauterives - a small town 30 miles south of Lyon in France. The story says that one day, when he was walking along his mail route, he stumbled and nearly fell over. Apparently, the shape of the stone that he had tripped on was so amazing that it inspired him to build the imaginative palace.

Completing such a task is not so easy if you are not an architect or even a builder but it did not seem to be a problem for Cheval. Having a clear target and being a very hardworking man, every day he was learning more about how to build, after with he began working long hours on the actual construction of the castle. Walking along his 42 kilometre-long mail route, he would collect stones, which he used to build the palace. After thirty -three years, the building was finally completed and those people who had at first criticised him, started to admire the results of his work. This original castle of grottoes was created in many different architectural styles, taken from many different cultures. The postman wanted to be buried in his creation but, as it would have been against the French law, he was buried instead in the mausoleum in Hauterives cementary in 1924.

- 1.1. Where can we see the Ideal Palace? We can see the palace _____.
- 1.2. What inspired Cheval to build the palace? It was _____.
- 1.3. How long did it take Cheval to build the palace? He took him _____ to build the palace.

The macaques are a species of monkey which live mainly in Asia. They eat seeds, leaves, flowers and tree bark, but there are also some sub-species which eat crabs. They live in social groups. This short description, which we can find in any textbook, doesn't mention anything that might worry people, but unfortunately, these animals have recently started to be very dangerous to humans. In the Indonesian tropical island of Java, some of these long-tailed creatures have attacked and bitten thirteen, mainly elderly people. The monkeys seem not to be afraid of people, so police and soldiers patrol the streets to protect the inhabitants from the monkeys' attacks. They have orders to kill the most aggressive individuals, but underline that it would only be in extreme situations. Animal protection activists, who claim that killing these animals is absolutely unacceptable, claim that humans are responsible for the situation. This is a result of the destruction of the forests where the macaques live, which has led the monkeys to look for food in the villages and towns of the island. Will the problem be solved soon? Only time will tell.

2.1. Where do the aggressive macaque monkeys live?

They live _____.

2.2. What are the police and army doing to protect people from the monkeys?

They _____.

2.3. Why have the macaque monkeys become aggressive?

Because _____.

Everybody knows that sleeping is a very important activity because it regenerates our body and our mind. According to the latest research, we sleep approximately 25 years during our lifetime. What is more, we usually do not think about it, but it is important to pay attention to whether you are sleeping too much or too little.

Dreaming is an interesting part of our sleeping. It appears that we dream every night but we often do not remember what we were dreaming about. It is proved that our dreams always contain people who we have met at some time in our life. And one other fact – the images in our dreams can be both in colour or black and white.

The length of our sleep depends on our age. The older you are, the shorter the period of sleep. It's also proven that we cannot live without sleeping for more than 10 days.

So what is the result of a really good sleep? A really good day after it!

Hi Maria,

I know that yesterday you and Adam decided to go on holiday together and, as a result, you are now desperately looking for a nice and not very expensive place to stay in. Earlier today I visited one of my friends, who is the owner of the travel agency called All Year Round, and I told her about your situation. She offered her help and has just emailed me some really attractive "last minute" offers. I know that you only have one week off, so I am sending you the one that's for seven days as the rest are for a fortnight. Maybe it'll help.

Take care and have a nice holiday!

Alex

Hi Jack,

Do you remember those funny guys from the hostel in the mountains and our discussion about music? We were talking about Simon and Garfunkel's songs. I have just checked my emails and do you know what I've got from Ticket master? Art Garfunkel is giving a concert in Royal Albert Hall! Have you got email addresses of those freaks we met? They were real fans! Maybe we could all go to the concert together. It would be nice to meet up with them again.

Write soon,
