The California Gold Rush

Between 1848 and 1855, lots of people travelled to California to look for gold. They wanted to become rich. The first person who discovered gold was James Marshall. He found it in a river near the city of Coloma. He tried to keep it a secret, but soon a lot of people knew about it.

Before the gold rush, there were more than 10,000 people living in California. In 1848, about 6,000 people arrived. They came from many different places in the world.

But why did they all want to find this metal? Well, like silver, it's hard and shiny, and it's used for making lots of different things. It's very difficult to find gold because there isn't a lot of it. Today, earrings, rings and bracelets are made of gold. Gold is also used for making smartphones, tablets and even cars! But they're very expensive!

6 Read. Then write your answer. Write 40–60 words.

Hi! I'm Emma and today I'm wearing a red sweater. It's made of wool and it's very warm. I'm wearing brown boots, too. They're made of leather. I'm also wearing my favourite earrings. They're made of silver. I love them! I've got a black bag. It's new and it's made of cotton.
What are you wearing today and what are your clothes made of?
Emma
