Questions 16-25

Transport in London

TICKETS TO TRAVEL

Single fares are available for any journey, although visitors will find it easier and better value to purchase a Travelcard. Travelcards are valid for use on the Underground, bus, DLR, tram and national rail, and also offer a one-third discount on River services. They are available for one, three or seven days, and in peak or off-peak versions for one and three days.

CONGESTION CHARGE

If you are driving in central London between 7am and 6pm Mon-Fri (except public holidays), you need to pay the Congestion Charge. The charge is £8 per day, which must be paid in advance or on the day of travel. If you pay by midnight the next day, the charge is £10.

NATIONAL RAIL

Trains are useful for reaching places that are not served by the Tube. Mainline stations include: Waterloo and Victoria, serving the south of England; Paddington, the south-west; Euston, the north; King's Cross, the north-east; and Liverpool Street, the east.

UNDERGROUND

There are 12 colour-coded Tube lines. Most operate from 5am to 12.30am Mon-Sat, and from 7.30am to 11.30pm on Sundays. It's cheaper and less crowded to avoid the rush hour and travel after 9.30am. The network is divided into six concentric zones – zone 1 is the central area.

AIRLINES

Virgin Atlantic Airways links London with major cities in the USA and across the world. British Airways carries passengers between 175 domestic and international destinations. BMI, the UK's second largest airline, operates from Heathrow and offers low-cost domestic and European flights and flies to international destinations.

TO LONDON BY BUS

Green Line operates three coaches an hour to Baker Street, Marble Arch and Victoria. Fares from £11 single; journey time 75 mins. EasyBus runs every 40 mins to Baker Street. Fares from £2 single; journey time about 55 mins.

COACHES

A quick and inexpensive way of making a day trip out of London. Victoria Coach Station is a major hub for various bus companies.

DOCKLANDS LIGHT RAILWAY

The DLR connects the City and the Underground network with Docklands. It's also a useful link to Maritime Greenwich. Services operate from 5.30am to 12.30am and tickets must be purchased before boarding a train.

Questions 36-40 refer to the following article:

At the beginning of nineteenth century, the American educational system was desperately in need of reform. Private schools existed, but only for the very rich. There were very few public schools because of the strong sentiment that children who would grow up to be laborers should not “waste” their time on education but should instead prepare themselves for their life’s work. It was in the face of this public sentiment that educational reformers set about their task. Horace Mann, probably the most famous of the reformers, felt that there was no excuse in a republic for any citizen to be uneducated. As superintendent of Education in the state of Massachusetts from 1837 to 1848, he initiated various changes, which were soon matched in other school districts around the country. He extended the school year from five to six months and improved the quality of teachers by instituting teacher education and raising teacher salaries. Although these changes did not bring about a sudden improvement in the educational system, they at least increased public awareness as to the need for a further strengthening of the system.

36. The best title for the passage could be
- A. A Flight for change
 - B. Nineteenth – the Century of Reform.
 - C. American Education in the Beginning of the 19th Century.
 - D. The Beginnings of Reform in American Education
37. The passage implied that to go to a private school, a student needed
- A. a strong educational background
 - B. good grades
 - C. a lot of money
 - D. a high level of intelligence
38. The word “desperately” in the passage mostly means
- A. completely
 - B. partly
 - C. obviously
 - D. urgently
39. According to the passage, Horace Mann wanted a better educational system for Americans because ...
- A. people had nothing else to do except go to school
 - B. education at the time was so cheap
 - C. all citizens should be educated in a republic
 - D. Massachusetts residents needed something to do with their spare time
40. According to the passage, which sentence is NOT TRUE?
- A. Horace Mann brought about changes in many schools in the United States.
 - B. Horace Mann began raising teacher’s salaries.
 - C. Horace Mann was a famous US educational reformer.
 - D. Horace Mann suggested schools prepare children for their life’s work.
