

4A will, may and might for predictions

We use will and won't (=will not) + infinitive to make predictions about the future. We usually use the contraction 'll after personal pronouns such as I, he, she, etc. and after there.

It'll be sunny tomorrow. It definitely won't rain.

There'll be lots of traffic tonight. She won't be here on time.

We often use probably to say that the prediction is less sure. Probably comes after will and before won't.

I'll probably go to the gym tonight.

You probably won't see Karen tomorrow.

We use may and might + infinitive to say that a prediction is possible. There is no difference in meaning between may and might.

He may be hungry when he gets home.

There might not be any food on the flight.

We don't use may or might to make questions.

Will the exam be difficult? NOT ~~Might the exam be difficult?~~

We can use may and might to reply to questions.

Will he get the job? He might. I'm not sure.

Will it rain tomorrow? It might, or it might not!

4.3	will	may	might
+	It'll rain tomorrow.	It may snow tomorrow.	It might be windy.
-	She won't pass the exam.	Kelly may not come.	Jorge might not arrive on time.
?	Will she be the next president?
Y/N	Yes, she will. / No, she won't.	Yes, she may. / No, she may not.	Yes, she might. / No, she might not.

Look! We often make predictions with I think ... or I don't think ... to show it is our opinion.

I think he'll win the race.

I don't think she'll lose her job. NOT ~~I think she won't lose her job.~~

- 1 Write sentences using the correct form of will, may and might.

1 It / probably / rain / tomorrow (will)

2 You / need / your car (may not)

3 I / don't think / we / see / you later (will)

4 We / have time / to get a coffee? (will)

5 She / come / to the meeting later (might)

6 They / probably / go / on holiday next year (won't)

7 I / think / there / be / lots of people / at the party (will)

8 What do you think / happen? (will)

- 2 Choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

1 They will / might go on holiday to France, but they haven't got much money so they 'll / might probably just stay at home.

2 I don't think that England will / may win the next World Cup. I'm sure it will / may be Germany.

3 I probably won't / may not come to the cinema, but I 'll / may be able to meet you afterwards. Can I text you later to let you know?

4 I'm sure you 'll / might pass your exam. Will / Might they tell you the result straight away?

5 It's certain that robots will / may become a part of all our lives. Who knows – a robot will / may even become president!

6 I know that you 'll / might really like Michael. You 'll / might meet him this weekend, although I'm not sure because his father's not well at the moment.

- 3 Complete the predictions with will or won't and the verbs in the box.

buy choose come become exist use
go shopping increase live understand

What will the world be like in 2050?

- The world's population _____ to more than nine billion people.
- Scientists _____ more about diseases and people _____ for longer.
- Parents _____ the sex of their baby.
- We _____ oil and gas for electricity. Most of our energy _____ from solar power.
- Some islands _____ anymore as sea levels increase. Some animals _____ extinct.
- People _____ in the high street. Instead, they _____ everything online.

◀ Go back to page 31