

Peter and Anna's Weekend

Peter and Anna are friends. On weekends, Peter stays at home in the morning. He doesn't cook breakfast — his mom cooks for him.

He plays video games, but he doesn't watch TV in the morning.

In the afternoon, he goes to the park and plays soccer.

Anna is different. She doesn't stay at home in the morning. She goes to the library because she loves to read. She doesn't play soccer, but she plays the piano at home.

In the evening, she cleans her room and eats dinner with her family.

On Sundays, they see each other and talk about their week. Peter asks, "Do you go to the park on Sunday?" Anna says, "No, I don't. I stay at home and read." Anna asks, "Do you cook on Sundays?" Peter says, "No, I don't. My mom cooks for me."
