Tomorrow is our school sports day. The weather forecast says it will be sunny, so we ___ have the event as planned. The teachers ___ prepare some fun games for the students, although there might be fewer than last year. During the games, we ___ see a surprise guest athlete, but it's not guaranteed. The principal ___ allow students to skip the opening ceremony, since attendance is very important. And of course, the school ___ cancel the event unless something very serious happens.
