

Life as a job of your choice.

Click on the correct answers.

A Day as a Scientist

If I were a scientist, I would work in a (1) [laboratory | lavatory]. I would mix chemicals, try new ideas, and write down the (2) [recipes | results]. My goal would be to find something (3) [useful | careful] for people. Sometimes I might fail, but I would keep (3) [try | trying]. Being a scientist is exciting because I can (4) [answer | ask] questions and discover answers.

A Day as a Veterinarian

If I were a veterinarian, I would (5) [spend | spent] my day taking care of animals. I would (6) [check | checks] check sick pets, give medicine, and sometimes do small operations. I would also talk to pet owners and give (7) [they | them] advice. Even though it is hard work, I would feel happy when the animals (8) [get | gets] well again.

A Day as a News Anchor

If I were a news anchor, I would read the news (9) [on | in | at] television. (10) [On | In | At] the morning, I would practice reading and prepare my notes. (11) [On | In | At] the studio, I would sit in front of the camera and share news (12) [for | about] weather, events, and people. It is an important job (13) [because | but] many people listen to me.

A Day as a Choreographer

If I were a choreographer, I would (14) [create | build] dance moves for songs. I would listen to music and think of steps to match the (15) [rhythm | lyrics]. Then, I would teach the dancers and help them practice. It takes time and (16) [obedience | patience], but I would feel proud when they perform well (17) [in | on] stage.