I really like street performers. You know, musicians, _____ and even those _____ who draw pictures on the pavement. I like listening to _____ as well, especially on the subway – some of them are really good. It's really uplifting to hear live music on the way to work!

I like all sorts of entertainment, but I really don't like circuses. They're really depressing. I think it's cruel to keep wild animals in those conditions and it's humiliating for them to do all those tricks! I guess _____ are very talented, though.

Shane

When I went to Thailand last year, I saw a traditional puppet play called the Hun Lakhon Lek. It was amazing. The _____ are all about a metre tall and each one has three puppeteers to move it. The _____ are also classical dancers, so the way the puppets move is really elegant and realistic.

I love the cinema! My favourite director is probably Quentin Tarantino. His films are always action-packed and the special effects are usually amazing! His latest _____ is for a western and I can't wait to see that! I also quite like Indian films. I mean, the plots can be a bit predictable but they always have a big cast so they are really visually interesting.

I really like _____ - _____. I love how comedians think about everyday things in such random and unusual ways – they're hilarious! But if you go to a live show, don't sit next to the stage – the comedians always make you the focus of their jokes and that can be pretty embarrassing!

Helmut

There's nothing like the atmosphere in a theatre when the curtain goes up and you see the stage and scenery for the first time. It's like being transported to a different world! And I think a really good performance is much more moving and emotional than watching a film. I love the energy between the performers and the _____.
