

Eco-fashion

Eco-fashion is becoming increasingly popular within fashion industry. The idea is to reduce harm _____ environment by using more environmentally friendly materials and processes to make clothes. Removing and adding different colours to materials produce huge quantities _____ toxic waste _____ pollutes soil and water. _____ addition, the traditional way _____ growing cotton using chemical fertilizers causes water pollution, and serious harm to farmers and soil. _____ the process of making clothes can be damaging to nature, there are some _____ harmful alternatives, for example, organic cotton. Organic farming does not use harmful chemical fertilizers, which means there is _____ pollution to the environment. There is also a great interest _____ finding new ways to add or change the colour of materials, which _____ based on using natural resources _____ as plants, berries and insects. In the past few years, more fashion designers have turned _____ eco-fashion to design their clothes and _____ is slowly changing what people think _____ the fashion industry. In long-term, it _____ hoped that the eco-fashion movement will lead _____ greater protection of the environment.

