We post a picture, press “like” and “share,”
Our friends can see it from everywhere.
The screen is shining, the world feels near,
But real voices are nicer to hear.

Scrolling all day, we laugh and we smile,
Funny short videos last for a while.
Yet outside the sun is warm and bright,
Let’s not forget the real world’s light.

So use the networks in a smart way,
A little online, then go out and play.
Friends in real life are gold to keep,
Memories there are strong and deep.
