

FIVE LITTLE PENGUIN

Once upon a time in a cold place called Antarctica, there were five little penguins Penny Peter Polly Percy and pip. They were the best of friends and loved playing on the ice. One day they found a big floating ice block that looked like a fun playground. They played on it all day sliding and splashing in the icy water. But they didn't notice that the ice was carrying them away from home. When they realized they were far from their Cozy home. Percy the smartest penguin had an idea. He said let's huddle together for warmth and paddle back home with our flippers. They worked hard flapping their flippers together and slowly they reached home. They learned that teamwork and quick thinking could solve problems. They promised to be more careful and always play together.

The moral of the story: teamwork and thinking fast can help you in tough times.
