

IS FASHION REALLY IMPORTANT?

Read the text and do the multiple-choice questions.

Fashion is something that many teenagers and adults talk about every day. Some people believe that fashion is very important, because the clothes you wear can say a lot about you. For example, if you wear smart clothes, people may think you are professional or serious. If you wear bright and colorful clothes, they may think you are fun and friendly. In this way, fashion can be a way to express your personality without speaking.

Another reason people care about fashion is confidence. Wearing clothes that look good can make you feel better about yourself. Many young people follow famous singers, actors, or influencers, and they want to copy their style. Shops and brands know this, so they often advertise the latest trends.

On the other hand, many people argue that fashion is not very important. They think it is more important to wear clothes that are comfortable, practical, and affordable. Fashion changes quickly, and trying to follow every new style can cost a lot of money. Some people also say that fashion creates pressure. If you don't have the newest shoes or the most popular jacket, you might feel left out.

In my opinion, fashion can be interesting and fun, but it should not control our lives. It is fine to enjoy new styles, but we should not judge people only by their clothes. What really matters is how kind, friendly, and confident we are, not what we are wearing.
