What does this sentence mean?

"I'm feeling blue today," said Kevin.

a) Kevin is holding something blue.
b) Kevin is feeling sad today.
c) Kevin is wearing blue today.

What does this sentence mean?

Dad saw red when he saw the mess in the kitchen.

a) Dad was wearing glasses that made everything look red.
b) The kitchen was messy and everything was red.
c) Dad was angry because of the mess in the kitchen.

What does this sentence mean?

Harriet was off colour today.

a) Harriet was ill today.
b) Harriet was wearing bright colours today.
c) Harriet was wearing pale colours today.

What does this sentence mean?

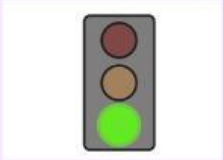

Kate goes to the theatre only once in a blue moon.

a) Kate goes to the theatre to watch plays about blue moons.
b) Kate rarely goes to the theatre.
c) Kate only goes to the theatre when there is a blue moon.

What does this sentence mean?

The council have the green light to build a new leisure centre.

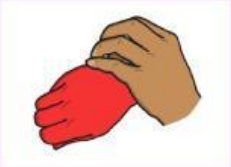

a) The council have a green light.
b) The council have permission to build a new leisure centre.
c) The council will build a new leisure centre using green lights.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

What does this sentence mean?

Shelly was caught red handed throwing stones in the playground.

a) Shelly has a red hand after throwing stones in the playground.
b) Shelly was found throwing stones in the playground.
c) Shelly wasn't throwing stones in the playground.

What does this sentence mean?

Ravi was looking green around the gills during PE today.

a) Ravi was looking ill during PE today.
b) Ravi was wearing green during PE today.
c) Ravi was looking at a green fish during PE today.

What does this sentence mean?

Gina will be tickled pink when she sees her birthday present.

a) Gina will be tickled on her birthday.
b) Gina will be wearing pink on her birthday.
c) Gina will be really pleased when she sees her birthday present.

What does this sentence mean?

Mohan has green fingers.

a) Mohan is a very good gardener.
b) Mohan has green gloves.
c) Mohan has fingers that are green.

What does this sentence mean?

"We had a test today, right out of the blue!" said Anu.

a) Anu had an unexpected test today.
b) Anu had a test about colours today.
c) Anu knew about the test today.

LIVEWORKSHEETS