A Classical music

When we listen to classical music, a neurotransmitter known as dopamine is released in our brains. This neurotransmitter creates pleasure and motivation and so strengthens our positive emotions. The melody of the song encourages focus in the brain. Our emotions are at peace with nature. One of the most famous pieces of this genre is 'The Blue Danube'. It is often presented in an orchestra where string instruments like the violin, viola and piano are used. This genre is suitable for ballroom dancing.

B Heavy metal

This genre is usually fast-paced. Electronic guitars and keyboards are used. Such music may cause confusion and stress in some listeners, promoting negative moods. Heavy metal songs are often written around darker themes of fear, mistrust, anger or sadness. Lyrics may be shouted, growled, shrieked and even rapped. The important part is the power behind those lyrics.

C Hip-hop

This genre of music is lively and suitable for most dance workouts. This music is popular among young people. They dance as they listen. It is played in street dancing. This genre originated from the United States in the 1970s. Drum beats synchronise with the rapping of the singers. The lyrics of the songs are about the difficult conditions and poverty faced by Black Americans.
