Stop Plastic Waste Now!

Thesis:

Every year, millions of tons of plastic waste end up in our oceans, rivers, and landfills. This situation is becoming a serious environmental threat that we can no longer ignore. Plastic pollution destroys marine life, contaminates our food chain, and harms our health. It is time for everyone to take responsibility and act.

Arguments:

First, plastic takes hundreds of years to decompose. A single plastic bottle we throw away today might still exist when our grandchildren are born. Second, most plastics are not properly recycled. They end up in rivers and oceans, choking fish, turtles, and seabirds. Third, microplastics are entering our food and water, posing health risks for humans.

Recommendation:

We must reduce our plastic use immediately. Bring your own shopping bag, say no to plastic straws, and use refillable bottles. Schools, communities, and governments should work together to promote recycling and strict waste management policies. Remember, small actions lead to big changes—let's stop plastic waste now!
