Tiger and Monkey

In the forest, there lived a tiger. He did not have friends. His neighbour, the monkey, did not want the tiger to be sad and alone. He tried to talk with the tiger, but he always opened his mouth and let out a loud, angry cry. The monkey also did his best to make him laugh, but the tiger looked at him with big, wide eyes.

One day, the tiger fell sick and only slept in his cave. Knowing this, the monkey went to put some food and clean water from a nearby river next to him. He made a fire to make the tiger feel warm as he waited for the tiger to wake up.

When the tiger woke up, the monkey told him the reason he came. The tiger smiled. He saw that the monkey was being kind. He asked the monkey to stay with him for the night. Since then, they became the best of friends. The tiger grew pleasant, and the forest animals felt free from danger when he was around. The tiger learned the true meaning of being kind from the animals of the forest.

- 10 What did the monkey do to try to become the tiger's friend?
- A He lived with the tiger in the cave.
 - B He told the tiger funny stories.

A	Barry Barry does not enjoy Math. The lessons are boring, and he always fails his tests. One day, he finds a beautiful pencil on the floor. To his surprise, it only writes correct answers! He does not even have to think. He just holds the pencil, and it moves! Barry stops listening in class, as he has the magic pencil to do his homework for him. However, when the pencil suddenly goes missing, Barry learns that working hard is the only way to improve.
B	John John has not got enough money to buy food in the canteen. He always brings food from home. One morning, he gives them to a hungry old man. Once he gets home, he opens his lunchbox and is surprised. It is filled with food! He tells his parents what has happened, but they think the food is from a friend. The next morning, John opens the lunchbox again. It is still full! He soon learns that if he shares his food, the lunchbox never becomes empty.
C	Hank Hank's dream is to join the school running team. Every day, he trains in the park. One evening, he meets an old woman there. They chat and Hank tells her about his dream. She invites him home and shows him a pair of old trainers. She wears them and runs down the road. Hank is amazed. The old woman runs faster than him! She offers Hank the magic shoes, but he says no. He will try his best.
