If you are looking for a unique trip to Europe this year, winter is a good time to go because there are a lot of spectacular festivals, from the Carnival in Venice to the Snow and Ice Sculpture festival in Belgium. People come from different countries to enjoy the happy festivals. Which one are you going to next year? Hmm, let's see…

First is Venice in Italy. It comes alive with people dressed in masks. They always walk along the canals in typical boats called gondolas. The carnival runs for two weeks every February, in the middle of winter. It is a great birthday gift for people who like to be near water and who like traditional events.

Then there is a special light festival in Amsterdam in Holland for the whole month of December. There are lights all around the city and artists come from all over the world and show their work along the canals. Lots of people visit the city for one or two days so they can see everything.

Don't miss the Snow and Ice Sculpture festival in Belgium. A different city each year becomes a magical place of beautiful sculptures. Every year, you can see them every day from November to January.

Last but not least, there is the dynamic Horizon Festival in a small ski resort in Andorra. There are bands playing every night, and skiing all day and night. It's a perfect break for a family because there are different activities for everyone!

So which festival is your choice?
