English Practical Test 2

Mrs, Aisha Alfalaah
Year 4

Rafi the Brave Rhino

Rafi was a young rhino who lived in the wide, green grasslands of Africa. He had a small horn that was still growing, and he loved to explore. Every morning, Rafi woke up early to watch the sunrise over the tall grass. His mother always told him, "Stay close, Rafi. The world is big, and you are still learning."

One day, while his mother was eating near the river, Rafi saw a group of colorful birds flying above the trees. "I want to see where they go!" he thought. He followed them farther and farther away. Soon, Rafi realized he couldn't see his mother anymore. He was lost.

Rafi felt scared at first, but then he remembered what his mother had taught him: "Be calm and listen to the sounds around you." He heard frogs croaking by the water and knew he was near the river. Slowly, he followed the sound until he reached a familiar place—the big rock where he and his mother always rested.

When his mother saw him, she ran to him quickly. "Rafi! You found your way home!" she said, rubbing her nose against his. Rafi smiled. "I remembered what you taught me," he said proudly.

That night, Rafi lay beside his mother under the stars. He felt safe, strong, and a little braver than before. He promised never to wander too far again—at least, not until his horn was as big as his courage.
