The 'father' of the World Wide Web

Tim Berners-Lee was born in 1955, in London, England. His parents were computer scientists, and he learnt a lot about computers from them. From a young age, he liked learning about how things worked and, later, he decided to study physics at Oxford University. When he graduated, he got a job at CERN, a research centre in Switzerland. At that time, it wasn't easy for scientists in different places to send each other important information.

In 1989, with the help of Robert Cailliau, Tim invented a system to help people send and see documents-the World Wide Web. With this system, it was easy for people to use the Internet from different places in the world to send, receive and find information using their computers.

1. Tim taught his parents a lot about computers.
2. Tim graduated from CERN.
3. Scientists couldn't send each other important information easily before the World Wide Web.
4. Tim Berners-Lee invented a new kind of computer.
