Learning to lead

If you are keen to learn some valuable new skills and make friends with people from around the world, why not join a youth <sup>1</sup> _____ (lead) course this summer.

There are many different programmes and courses available, both online and in person. Some courses help you unlock your <sup>2</sup> _____ (create) and use it to solve problems, while others focus on improving your <sup>3</sup> _____ (organize) skills.

Last summer, I went on a three-day residential course in the Scottish mountains. It wasn't cheap, but my parents gave me some money and I also used some of my own <sup>4</sup> _____ (save) to pay for it.

There were eight participants aged 12–16 and three instructors. I thought the atmosphere would be really <sup>5</sup> _____ (compete), but it was actually friendly and supportive, and the instructors were really <sup>6</sup> _____ (encourage).

I really enjoyed the classes we had on <sup>7</sup> _____ (negotiate) skills. I know these will be very useful both at school and at home. At the end of the course, everyone felt they had improved their <sup>8</sup> _____ (communicate) skills. It also helped me to become more <sup>9</sup> _____ (ambition) about what I can do and achieve in the future. I'd certainly recommend it to anyone.
