The houses of the future must use less energy in order to save the environment. One solution is to build smaller houses. Some people are already doing this. The M-CH house is one example. A man named Richard Horton designed it. This 7.1-square-meter home can hold up to two people and is shaped like a small white box. It has spaces for sleeping, cooking, and showering inside. The whole house costs only $32,000. Houses like the M-CH are very different but are cheaper and save energy. In the future, more houses may look like the tiny M-CH house.

16. What is special about the M-CH?

- A It just has enough space for basic living needs.
- B It uses the sun for power to run the lights.
- C It uses large amounts of energy and water.
- D It is build out of special materials.

17. Which of the following is TRUE about Richard Horton's design?

- A. It was the first small white house to be designed.
- B. The M-CH is not designed for large families.
- C. It has a place for making dinner and washing clothes.
- D. It is more expensive than regular houses.

- C. People can grow their own food inside.
- D. Small houses don't waste as much energy.

Exercise 2. Read the text and choose the correct answer.

What goes into a healthy diet? Here are ten great tips:

- Simple is better. A bowl of fruit and vegetables makes the perfect snack.
- Start slow. Changing your habits takes time. There's no need to hurry.
- Every step is important. Every dish of every meal matters.
- There are eight food groups. Water and exercise are just as important as food.
- Eat less, more often. Try four small meals instead of three big ones.
- Eat with friends. Don't eat in front of the TV or a computer.
- Eat slowly. Taste every bite; eating should be fun.
- Don't miss breakfast. It gives you energy for the day.
- Add color. Fruit and vegetables are the best for the body.
- Cook more. Restaurant meals aren't usually as healthy as homemade foods.

20. Where can you find the text above?

- A On a TV
- B In a magazine
- C On the radio
- D In a novel

21. How can you put color in your diet?

- A By eating fruit
- B By eating vegetables
- C By eating both fruit and vegetables
- D None of the previous

22. What does the text suggest?

- A Eat while you are doing other things.
- B Have fewer meals and smaller servings.
- C Eat fast to save time.
- D Prepare your own food at home.

23 What does the writer say about exercise?

- A It's more important than water.
- B You should drink water before you exercise.
- C You need it as much as you need food.
- D You should exercise slowly and with other people.

Exercise 3. Read the text and choose the correct answer.

What are the people around you doing? Many of them are probably looking at phones, computers, or TVs. Most people never take a break from technology. In the past, people took one regular rest day every week. They did no big activities and used no technology. They relaxed with their families. One group hopes we can do this again. They want us to promise to unplug from technology. The group believes that by doing so, our lives will become more peaceful, and our relationships will become better, too.

24 What did people do for a day every week in the past?

- A They spend time with their families.
- B They stayed home and played computer games.
- C They watched TV all day.
- D They did exciting activities

25 What does the group want us to do?

- A Work harder instead of relaxing all the time.
- B Buy better technologies to use.
- C Take two days off every week.
- D Stop looking at screens.

26 According to the group, how does unplugging help people?

- A People will have more fun in life.
- B People can spend less money.
- C People will become closer to each other.
- D People can obtain information easily.

27 Which of the following is the best title for the text?

- A Take a break from technology.
