

One day last year, I had a _____ of homework. It was so _____ that I almost cried! My little brother wanted to help, but all he did was _____ with me about whether dinosaurs could use a _____. I said no. He said yes – and that T-Rex would use voice search because his arms were too short. Honestly.

I had to _____ three big projects by Friday. So, I went online to find some _____. My _____ was “How not to fail school”, and Google _____ immediately. However, it wasn’t really helpful. One site even asked to type in my e-mail before showing the answers – that was super _____.

In the end I found a very _____ website made by a teen who _____ by making study apps with all sorts of information _____. The site was so helpful that I _____ perfect results in the end of the school year.