

GRAPES of a Civilization

Civilizations all need things like a steady food and water source, shelter, and clothing (basic human needs). To be considered "civilized," though, there are also certain structures in place.

One way to study civilizations is by looking at the GRAPES of that civilization.

DIRECTIONS: in the chart below, add colored sketches and words/phrases that represent or show examples of each GRAPES category.

Name:

Date: _____

Period:

G eography	R eligion	A chievements	P olitics	E conomics	S ocial Structures
the study of the Earth's surface, climates and countries key words/terms/ideas: maps, landforms, climate, location	belief in one or more gods and the rules / traditions related to that key words/terms/ideas: god, theism, worship, prayer, temples	something important or difficult that was done successfully; inventions key words/terms/ideas: inventions, contributions, legacy, art, architecture	ideas and activities relating to government and power key words/terms/ideas: emperor, king, power, law, war	having to do with production and trade of goods and money key words/terms/ideas: : trade, barter, merchants, jobs, business	the organization of people and the way they live in society; social classes key words/terms/ideas: classes, levels, status, servant, slaves, aristocrats