WILL VS. GOING TO: WEEKEND IN BABAHOYO

This weekend, a group of friends from Babahoyo are making different plans around Barreiro and Babahoyo. Jorge is going to start his Saturday visiting the Malecón because he wants to record a short vlog about the river. He thinks the weather will be warm, so he won't take a jacket.

Adael, however, believes it will rain, so he is going to carry a raincoat and an umbrella. He didn't plan anything special, but he says he will meet the group if they call him.

Meanwhile, Mario Rodríguez is going to prepare a small picnic at Parque 24 de Mayo. He already bought snacks and drinks, but he knows his friends will probably eat everything in less than ten minutes. Carlos said he is going to bring a speaker to play music, although he thinks the battery will die before the afternoon ends.

In the evening, Camila is going to guide everyone through her favorite spots near the Puente de Barreiro. She believes the sunset will look beautiful, and she plans to take pictures of the group. After that, they are not sure what to do next, but they say they will decide together once they reach the end of the bridge.

The friends are excited because they feel the weekend is going to be relaxing, fun, and full of surprises in their city.
