LIVING WITH TIGERS

In the Sundarbans region in Bangladesh, thousands of people go into the forests every day to fish, hunt and look for honey and firewood. The work is difficult and it can also be very dangerous because the forests are home to lots of wildlife, including about 400 tigers.

In the last year, tigers have killed about 50 people in the Sundarbans area. The local people feel scared and they worry that the tigers will come into their villages and attack them. They sometimes go into the forests and kill the tigers.

With the help of a tiger charity, local people are learning how to live and work close to tigers, how to look for tiger marks on the forest floor and listen for the sounds from other animals when there is a tiger nearby. Charity workers also tell people where the attacks have happened. If they see a tiger, they learn not to run away, but to look at it and make lots of noise.

The tiger is a big part of the culture here. The people sing songs about tigers and tell stories about tiger gods. The charity hopes that the people will learn to understand the tigers better, and will be able to live safely with these beautiful animals.

FACT! There are only about 3,000 wild tigers left in the whole world.

1. There are approximately 400 wild tigers living in the Sundarbans region of Bangladesh.
2. The primary job of the local people mentioned is working for the tiger charity.
3. The people in Sundarbans have to worry about tigers entering their villages to fish.
4. Charity workers teach the local people how to listen for the sounds of other animals when a tiger is far away.
5. The local culture does not include any songs or stories about the tigers.
6. If a local sees a tiger, they are advised to look at it and shout loudly rather than running away.
7. The risk of being killed by a tiger has completely disappeared thanks to the help of the charity.
