The Missing Flamingos

Flamingos are large, pink birds, which get their colour from eating a particular kind of seafood, shrimps. In 1988, ten flamingos were taken from Tanzania to a zoo in Utah, USA. To stop flamingos flying away, the feathers on their wings are cut slightly. After arriving at the zoo, the flamingos were put with other African birds by a lake. However, the zookeepers forgot to perform the important wing cutting, as they were engaged with other things. There were more visitors than normal at the zoo, and all staff were giving tours or answering questions in the garden area. As a result, two flamingos flew away and staff realised their mistake too late.

When the group of flamingos had first arrived, they were given numbers instead of names. The two missing birds were numbered 492 and 347. Flamingos can travel long distances, sometimes 600 kilometres a day. For this reason, a member of staff admitted that they didn't even try looking for them, as they knew it would be too difficult to catch them. Fortunately, 492 was spotted at the nearby Salt Lake. The bird became a tourist attraction and was nicknamed 'Pink Floyd'. Although it is known to spend around ten months of the year far away in Texas, it regularly returns to the Utah area for the vast number of shrimps to eat, as well as the climate.

After escaping in 1988, Pink Floyd was seen at Salt Lake every year until 2005, and it was believed the bird had died. However, a flamingo was reported there in 2022, with white spots on its wing. Since staff never had a chance to mark Pink Floyd with its number, this was the only way of telling it was bird 492. Flamingos live about 40 years, and apart from some signs of ageing in its beak and legs, Pink Floyd looked completely fine. Unfortunately, flamingo 347 has never been found.

For questions 1-3, write your answer in the box. (2 marks each).

1. Why were the flamingos able to escape?

2. Why didn't the zoo try to look for the flamingos?

Section R2 (7 marks)

Read the five short texts below, which are all about holiday locations. Choose from the texts (A to E) and complete the answer grid. The texts may be chosen more than once. One has been done for you as an example.

A. The Belfort Campsite, on the edge of Waverly Forest, offers an interesting range of water activities for all ages. There are fun, daily lessons in the indoor pool for those aged between five and ten. For safety reasons, these can only be accessed with a parent. We also run water volleyball classes for 11-17s. For our adult guests, there are swim gym lessons led by our trained staff at weekends only.

B. While you are our guest, why not book one of our beach huts, right on the water's edge? We have five brightly-coloured huts located on the beach at Carlton Bay. Guests can walk straight down the hotel steps to our award-winning huts, and there is equipment to use both on and off the water, including surf boards, kites and volleyball sets. The huts cost £20 a day or £30 for a Saturday & Sunday booking.

C. Butterworth Castle is a great day out. Built in 1385, part of the inside of the castle has been converted into a museum, where you can learn all about the history of Butterworth. There is also a church, and a garden maze outside for the children to have fun in. Teenagers and adults love trying to find their way out of the maze! All this for £18 per person and 10% discount for a family of four.

D. If this is your first visit to Salmouth Edge Hotel, you won't be disappointed during your all-inclusive stay. No need to pay for any of our activities! Why not play tennis on one of our private courts? Booking is required as tennis is so popular; rackets and balls are included. We also offer a daily guest bus service to the local beach just three miles away. It can also drop you at the castle or the adventure park.

E. The River Tay is one of the best places in the area to visit for the day. You can walk along the riverbank, which leads into the beautiful village of Turnbrook. There is also a water sports centre with boats and canoe hire too. Prices start at £25 per person but life jackets are not included and must be purchased. For over 18s who want to try out something new, there are paddle-boarding lessons available.

Which holiday location, A, B, C, D or E,

	e.g.	D
provides free equipment?	1
offers beginner lessons for adults only?	2
